CONVICTS SPEAK CARD PLAYER OF PRESIDENT

Penitentiary.

SERVICES FOR PRISONERS STRANGER DROPPED A GUN ERED BY FATHER KIELY.

The inmates of the state penitentiary participated in three different religious services yesterday, under the direction, respectively, of the Christian Endeavor society, the Catholic church and the Christian Scientists. At the first named meeting, which occurred in the forenoon, there had been some remarks on the subject of President Mchiney's assassimation, and when the speaking had concluded, a number of the convicts arose and expressed themselves strongly, denouncing the deed and anarchy in all its forms. One of the most emphatic expressions came from Douglas, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of his wife. He said that all Americans, whatever their standing might be, wound srlowously deplore the deed and he hoped it the state of the means of driving all any and the capter of the wife of the country.

In the alternoon, Father Kiely of St. Mary and the chapel pulpit. His discourse was a feeling the country.

In the category of paradise, the first of the country was a feeling the country.

In the service of paradise, the first of the first of the shocking crime at Buffalo. The criminal who brought about such a national disgrace, he said, is so morally depraved that he does not even realize the baseness of his crime. The speaker held that there was no palliation for the crime. When a man commits a foul deed while under the influence of liquor or in the heat of passion, the circumstances are different from when one coolly plots and connives and unites with a society whose mission is to destroy government and assassinate the chief executive. Such a crime is inexplicable, "Yather Kiely declared, and the perversity of such person or persons is inhuman and ashormal."

abnormal.

In the name of liberty and equality, continued, "the maddened cry of any has been transplanted from Eughness of the people were for centuries cod and ruled at the point of the bay, to free American soil. But why are, chosen by the people, should be assinated by one of the people is an install problem."

anarchy and extolled the lamented int for his many virtues. Inclusion he said: "Our cool, long-statesmen, who thought that the Garfield was the last martyr assassin's bullet, will now study uses of anarchy and legislate this growth, whilst all true and Americans unanimously cry out: hatever our faults may be, Amerida thever was, is not and never will never was, is not and never will

SUNDAY FIRE ALARMS.

During the early hours of last evening the smouldering ruins of the Short Line Stilling brooks forth in flames at a point learest the Dooly block. For a time conclearable damage was threatened, Department No. 2 was sent to the scene, and after working an hour or so, 306 feet of hose having been stretched, succeeded n allaying all fears. The ruins are still hrowing forth smoke, but it is not believed there is danger of another outreak of flames.

Czolgosz's Deed Denounced at the Stray Bullet Struck Chip in His Hand.

ELOQUENT DISCOURSE DELIV- CAUSED PANIC IN AD ADJOIN-ING ROOM.

> Salt Lake City has an uncrowned and modest hero from the standpoint of coolness, who can face possible death without turning a hair. Also a visitor who carries a revolver so recklessly who carries a revolver so recklessly that he gave a group in Charles Auer's saloon, it West Second South street, a scare Saturday afternoon such as they will not soon forget.

Both had occasion to exhibit their specialties at that time. A revolver, accidentally discharged through the carelessness of the stranger, sent its deadly contents through a partition, jeopardizing the lives of a group of friends sitting about a table engaged in a game of cards. He who had the closest call and whose life was spared almost by a half's breadth, was tossing a poker chip to the center of the table. The celluloid disk was shattered by the bullet and torn from his clutch. Yet, while his friends scattered in all directions for shelter, he sat unmoved by the incident. Some assert that the shock left him motionless—others that he stuck by his seat in a spirit of daring bravado. As for the man himself, he has refused thus far to come forward and give his version.

Caused Much Excitement.

Caused Much Excitement.

The incident was replete with unusual and unlooked for details that have leaked out. While the party of players were quietly engaged in their pastime in Auer's place a stranger entered L. F. Harr's place, next door, and, stepping to the wash room, removed his cuffs and coat. In the coat pocket rested a heavy revolver. Suddenly the coat dropped from the hook where it was suspended and the revolver was discharged with a report that startled those about the place. A cloud of smoke, weighted with the odor of burning sunpowder, was wafted from the wash room, and thought centered upon a supposed suicide.

Harian S. McCanne led in the rush to the spoi, only to find a cowering and thoroughly frightened man picking the smoking weapon from the floor. As his lack of intent to do anyone injury was obvious, no effort was made to detain him.

Back of the partition separating the room from Auer's place, greater excitement reigned. The bullet plered the light partition and sped through the cluster gathered on the other side. No one knew the secret of the shooting, or whether additional shots would follow, and the rush for safety that ensued was more perceptible than dignified. One man, and one alone—the player who had experienced the closest call—sat calmly and coolly awaiting developments, according to report, while feet, protruding from behind handy pleces of furniture, told eloquently of the presence of his companions.

As the affair was purely accidental, the police took no cognizance of the As the affair was purely accidental the police took no cognizance of the matter.

UNTUTORED SAVAGE TRIED TO FLIRT WITH THE HOOCHIE-COOCHIE GIRL

DOOR LO has encountered civilization and fallen by the wayside.

He maintained his native hauteur and dignify in the face of all the temptations of a big city until yesterday. Then the Oriental contingent for the Elks' carnival arrived and with it the hoochie-koochie dancers. Before repairing to their hotels the maids of the effete east passed through the carnival enclosure on a tour of inspection. Past the Indian camp they swept with tinkling bells, jingling ornaments and sinewy, gliding step. Lowas on the watch. The effect was more than he could stand, and it was all off with him.

Like a September frost before a rising sun his dignity departed, and in its place a broad smile spread overhis face. His eyes opened wide and centered upon the swarthy dames from Bagdad with an expression new to him. Alas! Lo had contracted the "goo-goo eye."

Culprit Taken in Hand.

Culprit Taken in Hand.

Near at hand in full force the squaws had witnessed the scene. For a moment they hesitated, then fell upon the triffers with words of approbrium and reproach. At least it sounded that way to one only distantly acquainted with the Ute tongue. But no one was left long in doubt, for copper-colored hands laid violent hold on fire wood and other articles calculated to prove effective in arguments with a fractious, recreant spouse and peace overtures were soon forthcoming from the flitting-inclined red men.

In the interim the Midway girls passed on with heads high in the air and swishing skirts, quite unconscious of the scene they had created in the scamp omf the Occidental aborigines and of the possibilities of shattered homes created by them. Still the wordy war continued, and when it ceased rumon was rife that Lo had entered upon a season of espionage, in which he will continue under the watchful eye of his wife or wives, as the case may be.
